

Elizabete Beāte Rudzinska - Holding the Space

1. Measure the space between two objects or borders with your hands. Big or small, horizontal or vertical.
2. Take a moment to notice what the space contains. As much time as you need.
3. Carefully pick up the empty space and slowly carry it to the other side of the street.
4. Place it down. If it was vertical, place it horizontal. If it was horizontal, place it vertical.
5. Take a moment to notice what is now held by the space you carried over. As much time as you need.

Reports:

Jello:

It was like carrying a very delicate fragile object.
After putting it down vertically, none of that remained.

Photo Frans van Lent