

Kamila Wolszczak - I'm here for the first time in my life

I will walk in the Nieuwstraat with a vacuum cleaner turned on, like in my house.
That will be my way of recording the dust of this public space and archiving it.
My limitation will be the power cable, which is connected to a house.

At the beginning, power cables will hang from the letterboxes on the front doors of three houses in Nieuwstraat, ready to be used.

I performed the work myself, next time I'd like to delegate it to someone.
I would improve the concept to ask people about electricity or attach enough cable to get the vacuum cleaner all the way to the market.
It would be great if this performance were done by non-professional artists.

The comments that I remember from people: 'Great job, that would be wonderful if you clean the whole the street'.
